ANNUAL REPORT

www.cvrc.state.nm.us

(505) 841-9432

Our primary mission is to provide financial assistance to victims of violent crime with expenses incurred as a result of their victimization. In addition, CVRC also administers federal flow-through funding from the United States Department of Justice. This funding is sub-granted to private non-profit and governmental programs throughout the State of New Mexico.

Rebuilding a life damaged by violence takes courage, determination and belief in the certainty of a better and safer future. Too often, the path from victim to survivor is a solitary one. When New Mexico communities reach out to help, miracles can happen and recovery becomes more than a hope, it becomes a reality.

In Bernalillo county, a mother of three walks into the Family Advocacy Center in Albuquerque to report that her husband assaulted her. She leaves with a protective order, a Crime Victims Compensation application, counseling referrals for herself and her family, and a safer tomorrow in a new location. Through our Relocation and Rental Assistance Program (RRAP) we assisted 94 victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and human trafficking find a new and safe residence. Real stories like this are repeated countless times in many of the communities across New Mexico. During Fiscal Year 2017, our Victim Compensation program received more than 3,000 applications and provided $2 million to help crime victims. Financial assistance alone can't heal all, and in many cases help and recovery are found through caring and compassionate partnerships with local, community-based organizations.

In addition to the direct assistance provided by our Crime Victims Compensation Program, the Grants Programs provided more than $8 million to support organizations that assist in rebuilding lives. As a result of their helping hands, thousands of New Mexicans are no longer victims – they are survivors.
